

Organizers

The Goethe-Universität Frankfurt, the Philipps-Universität Marburg and the Universität Koblenz-Landau are the academic coordinators of the training programme and work closely together with the DAAD. This joint research and teaching community has been working together in different international projects on the topics of biodiversity, geospatial technologies and higher education didactics over the last years. We have a wide network of national and international experts who act as lecturers in this training programme and provide in-depth experience, reflecting the specific topics from an international and intercultural perspective.
